SOMETHING ABOUT PAPERS.

The Index in a recent article gives some interesting figures regarding the number of outside newspapers taken in Carson City. They are mostly Sacramento, San Francisco and Virginia papers and the total foots up to nearly 800. Possibly there is no State where the citizens patronize their own papers so little and outside papers so much.

The bulk of the papers brought into this city from the outside scarcely ever have anything to say for the interests of Carson. There are four papers published in the city of Carson today but not one of them can be said to properly represent a city of the size of Carson. Neither are these papers a credit to the profession of journalism. The Index suggests that if the people of the city were to combine in one morning and one evening paper the quality of the paper would be improved and the nuisance of having four newspapers in a town of 3,000 inhabitants would be abated.

This is a good idea and worthy the attention of business men. The monthly raid of four newspaper collectors on the business men of the city is becoming more and more of a nuisance, for there is not a business man in the city who does not know that an advertisement in a morning paper and another in an evening publication, is just as good for him as if it were in a dozen more Carson papers.

Besides the amount subscribed to outside dealers there is a large amount of money goes out for periodicals of all descriptions. A fair estimate of the money which goes out of Carson for papers monthly, would be $1,500. Now if $1,000 of this were to be paid to any one paper in Carson that paper could give the city a telegraph service equal to the Enterprise and much earlier. If $1,500 were to be divided between two papers, a morning and evening, the latest telegraphic news could be hawked on the street every day in the week at 6 o'clock in the morning and at 4 in the afternoon. Instead of that, however, in order to get the telegraph news, men who never take a Carson paper will send to San Francisco and get the news twelve hours old.

There are State, County and Federal officials who never take a Carson paper but are quite willing to read it at a hotel or restaurant table for the pleasure they derive in finding a typographical error there.

Of the outside papers, the San Francisco Chronicle heads the list with 253. We do not believe that any single paper in Carson has a city circulation as large as this. The Enterprise circulates 175 here, and in our opinion there are but two papers in Carson whose city circulation exceeds these figures.

Curious if True.

Ira L. Carver, a prominent business man of Boston, arrived overland today, and is registered at the Palace. He could not refrain from remarking a curious coincidence after he registered. He came to this State for the first time on June 13, 1883, again visited it on June 13th, 1885, and on today, the second anniversary of his second visit he again placed his name on the register. On each occasion it was his intention to get there before the 13th of June, but delays on the road prevented his arrival sooner. Mr. Carver is of the opinion that if he started out from Boston on the first of January he could not get to San Francisco before June 13th. Another curious circumstance in connection with Mr. Carver's pilgrimage was that on his first he was assigned to room 1,000-fourth floor, on his second to 1,001 and today the clerk handed him out the key to 1,002. By the middle of the next century he will get up, at this rate of progression, to the next floor.—Post.
